Introducing Your New Careers Adviser – Support for Post-School Options

Dear Parents/Carers

My name is Clare Jesson, and I'm delighted to introduce myself as the new Careers Adviser working with Glenwood School.

Transitioning from school is a significant step, and I understand that it can come with many questions and decisions. My role is to work closely with the school to provide tailored careers guidance and to help ensure that every young person is supported in making a successful and confident transition into further education, training, employment, or other meaningful opportunities.

To help you make informed choices, I'd like to share a link to valuable resources available on our website: Course: Hampshire Futures Careers Information Service. Once on the page, please select the 'Inclusivity & SEND' tab to access a wide range of careers resources. You'll also find a table listing foundation-level courses currently available to learners across Hampshire. For details about individual courses or places of study, please contact the providers directly.

If you have any questions, concerns, or would simply like to talk through the options available, please don't hesitate to get in touch.
